I have led studies evaluating the real-world outcomes of Androgen Receptor Pathway Inhibitors (ARPI) and ADT in metastatic castration-resistant prostate cancer (mCRPC). Furthermore, my research extends to the integration of cutting-edge technologies, such as single-cell and spatial transcriptomics, to elucidate the tumor microenvironment and identify predictive biomarkers for precision oncology. Beyond clinical trials, I have been actively involved in refining diagnostic methodologies, notably comparing transperineal versus transrectal prostate biopsy techniques to improve cancer detection while minimizing complications. With a strong commitment to high-impact publishing, I continuously contribute to the global urological community as a dedicated researcher and a reviewer for prestigious journals such as Prostate International and the World Journal of Men's Health (WJMh).
